Dear SCOTT D OTTERSON:

You are nearing the end of your regular unemployment benefits. This letter will help you understand what's next and where to find more information.

Final Payment

You have $2,158.00 in benefits left and a weekly benefit amount of $1,079.00. That leaves about two weeks of benefits available at the time of this letter.

In eServices, you will see a weekly status of "Final Payment" when you have run out of benefits. This payment may be smaller than normal.

WorkSource can help

WorkSource can help you develop your resume, improve your job interview skills, and connect you with training and employers. Contact your local office. Go to WorkSourceWA.com and select Resources.

You also can use the Live Chat feature. Look for a notice in the lower right corner of the WorkSourceWA.com home page. Live Chat agents are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Extensions may be available

During times of economic distress, additional unemployment benefits may be available. These programs are limited in time and typically have unique eligibility requirements. Visit <https://esd.wa.gov/unemployment/benefit-extensions> for more information about current extensions.

When you've run out of unemployment benefit options

After you run out of unemployment benefit options, you'll have to wait until the end of your benefit year to reapply for regular unemployment. You can learn more in the Handbook for Unemployed Workers and online at esd.wa.gov.

If you no longer need benefits

You can stop submitting weekly claims any time. After four weeks of no activity, you'll need to reopen your claim before you can start submitting weekly claims again. You can reopen your claim in eServices or by calling the Unemployment Claims Center at 800-318-6022 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday - Friday.
